

Internship Job Vacancy at NovFeed May 2025

Paid Internship

NovFeed

NovFeed has developed a biotechnological platform where organic waste is converted into a natural, traceable, and safe non-animal protein source for aquaculture feeds. The platform allows to replace the production of unsustainable protein ingredients, like fishmeal and soy protein concentrates that are extensively used in aquaculture feeds globally.

NovFeed is looking for motivated and capable young people to market and sell liquid fertilizers. We welcome applications from young people who are experienced in the agricultural sector and are motivated to work hard and with results.

Required Qualifications:

Have a diploma or degree in any agricultural-related course.

Have at least 3 years of experience in marketing and sales, especially in the agricultural sector.

Have an understanding of agricultural products, especially liquid fertilizers.

Ability to communicate well, persuade customers, and achieve sales goals.

Position type:

This is a paid internship position. If you demonstrate your ability and efficiency in the job, you will be able to be hired for permanent employment.

How to apply:

Send a short cover letter explaining why you believe this position is right for you, and attach your CV.

Send your application by email to: info@novfeed.com